AREA IS FLOODED BY RECORD RAIN

Niles Boy Swept To His Death

Roads Washed Out In Cass And Berrien

By BRANDON BROWN
Staff Writer

Up to 4 1/2 inches of rain Tuesday in southwestern Michigan washed out roads, filled basements and flooded a ditch that swept a Niles boy to his death.

Berrien and Cass county road commissions reported washouts, and the Berrien county drain commissioner's office was swamped with calls Tuesday about water-filled basements, flooded roads, and overflowing storm drain systems.

Flooding seemed worst in the Eau Claire and Niles areas, where 4 1/2 inches of rain was recorded during a nine-hour period.

The U.S. Weather Bureau forecast for southwestern lower Michigan predicted light rain and drizzle today and chance of showers tonight, but partly sunny Thursday.

4.77 INCH RAINFALL

William Teichman of Eau Claire, a voluntary weather observer for the U.S. Weather Bureau, reported 4.77 inches of rain from 7 a.m. through 4 p.m. Tuesday and said it appeared to be the heaviest fall in his 45 years of observation.

The Niles sewage treatment plant recorded 4.49 inches from midnight Monday through midnight Tuesday; the Dowagiac sewage treatment plant scored 4.20 inches; Glendora had 3.50 inches; Berrien Springs and Sodus had 2 1/2 inches; the Twin Cities airport measured 2.37 inches; and South Haven had 1.33 inches.

Some scattered power shortages, the longest less than two hours, were attributed to rain-bent tree limbs in Berrien county. In an unrelated incident, a bulldozer reportedly hit an Indiana & Michigan utility pole in Lake Michigan Beach Tuesday and cut power there for three hours.

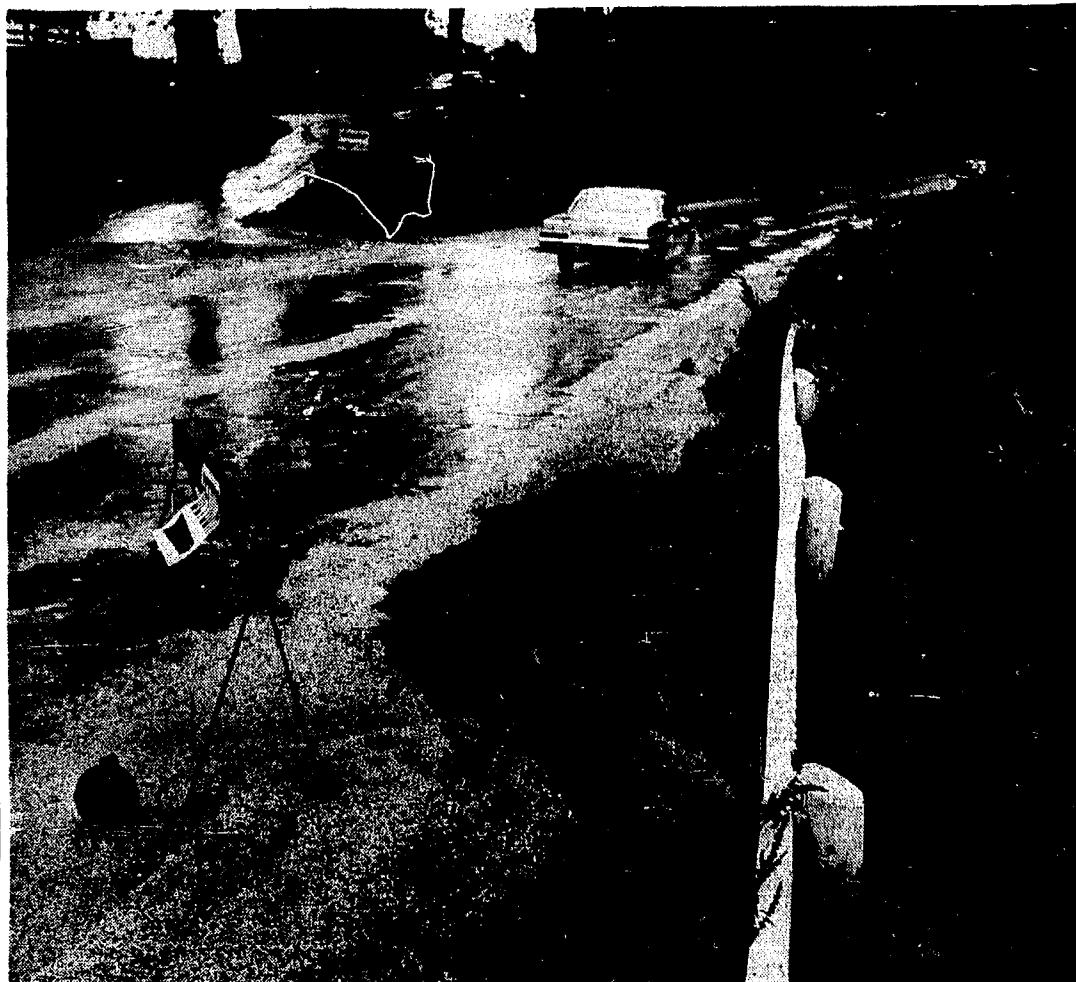

All service was reported restored.

BOY DROWNS

The Niles youngster, Randy Williams, 11, of 1114 Weesaw road, was playing with three companions shortly after 5 p.m. Tuesday in a rain-swollen storm drain ditch on the west side of the city when he was swept away.

The companions and two passers-by tried to help, but Randy was sucked into a three-foot diameter drain tile carrying water under M-60 business route. The body was discovered three-quarters of a mile away by a homeowner. Attempts to

Important State Post Goes To Sen. Zollar

Heads Group That Controls Purse Strings

Within four years of entering state politics, Senator Charles Zollar, Benton Harbor Republican, has been named to a post which many political observers consider second in importance only to the governorship.

The state senate yesterday afternoon unanimously confirmed Zollar as chairman of its powerful appropriations committee.

All bills involving appropriations, whether they originate in the House or Senate, must clear the Senate appropriations committee.

This puts the committee, and

particularly its chairman, in position not only to exert control over spending and tax bills, but also to influence other legislation because of holding the all-important purse strings.

BIG RESPONSIBILITY

By telephone from Lansing, Senator Zollar told this newspaper that he was particularly pleased that his confirmation was unanimous. And he added: "I realize the responsibility of the position, and I expect to have the cooperation of the members of the committee in trying to establish a sound fiscal policy for the state. In my time on the committee, I've had such cooperation and the committee members are certainly, in my opinion, conscientious and the hardest-working committee in the Legislature."

Zollar has been committee vice-chairman for the past year and a half. He succeeds Senator Frank Beadle, St. Clair Republican, as chairman. Beadle resigned from the Senate a month ago after 18 years in the Upper Chamber, giving his age — 69 — as his reason.

Senator Beadle recommended Zollar as his replacement in the appropriations chairmanship. And the bipartisan Senate "committee on committees" unanimously nominated the Benton Harbor Republican.

EIGHT MEMBERS

There are eight members of the appropriations committee. With the GOP currently holding a 20 to 18 majority in the Senate, there are five Republicans and three Democrats on

Atty. Mohar Quits Race For Prosecutor

Benton Harbor Attorney Angela Mohar, who filed as a Democratic candidate for Berrien county prosecutor, said late Tuesday she is dropping out of the race.

She indicated she is giving consideration to running for one of the new district judgeships in the new Fifth district. The district embraces all of Berrien county except the Cities of Benton Harbor and St. Joseph and will have three judges at large. Miss Mohar is a Coloma township resident.

Under the law, her name cannot now be withdrawn from the prosecutor's contest, but she said was throwing her support and endorsement to Atty. Tat Prish of St. Joseph. Parish filed for prosecuting attorney on the Democratic ticket the day after Miss Mohar did. She said she was unaware of Parish's plans and wanted to give the Democrats a candidate for the office.

"After I filed, I was delighted to learn that Attorney Tat Prish also filed for the Democratic nomination for prosecutor. I feel that Attorney Parish would be the strongest candidate we Democrats could nominate. He has already begun to attract strong support from Democrats, Republicans and independents. He is, in my opinion, the best qualified candidate for prosecutor."

MAY SEEK JUDGESHIP

If she decides to run for a district judgeship, she said she then would be permitted under the law to have her name stricken from the official list of candidates for prosecutor.

Both Berrien County Prosecutor John Hammond and the state attorney general have ruled a third Democratic candidate for prosecutor, Laurel Groenke of Baroda, is ineligible to run for the office. Groenke is not an attorney.

Miss Mohar's action would leave the Democratic nomination free to Parish.

Floods Hit Kalamazoo, Lansing, Detroit Areas

By Associated Press

Up to five inches of rain Tuesday night and today left two youths reported dead, many homes and buildings flooded, and caused numerous flood threats in the Lansing area and along the Raisin River in southeastern Lower Michigan.

The weather bureau today issued a flood warning for the Red Cedar River and the Grand River in the Lansing area. The weather bureau advised persons in the low lying areas of Red Cedar Basin to be prepared to move to higher ground.

Meanwhile, a containment dam east of Tecumseh in Lenawee County broke under force of water this morning, sending the River Raisin waters pouring out towards the city's sewage plant. However, there was no immediate threat to the city, police said.

Name Head Of Allegan Health Unit

ALLEGAN (AP) — Dr. C.A. Dickinson, a general practitioner at Wayland for 33 years, was named medical director of the Allegan County Health Department effective July 1. He has served as county coroner and medical examiner since 1937.

Up to 200 persons reportedly pitched in to place sandbags at a dam in Saline early today, where a River Raisin tributary raged six feet above normal.

There were extensive reports of flooding from throughout the metropolitan Detroit area. In suburban Roseville, Mayor William McDonald declared a state of emergency in the community of more than 50,000 people. Police and firemen were placed on emergency 24 hour duty until the flood conditions in the area subsided.

TWO YOUTHS DROWN

Meanwhile, a youth in the Detroit suburb of Troy and another in Niles in southwestern Lower Michigan were reported dead. Police recovered the body of J. K. Grandy of Crosswell today, who was drowned when he was swept into an open drainage ditch running across an apartment development in Troy Tuesday night. Grandy was walking with his sister and brother-in-law at the time.

Air Bubbles Aid Fight On Alewives

HOLLAND (AP)—A curtain of air bubbles across the mouth of the Holland harbor appears effective in keeping large numbers of Lake Michigan alewives from entering Lake Macatawa.

Members of the Lake Macatawa Intermunicipality Committee, which contracted to have the equipment installed in the harbor, said it was proving more effective than anticipated. A research boat from Grand Valley State College is expected to count the alewives in Lake Macatawa later this week.

Senator Zollar Gets To The Top In Hurry

Most state senators would have to be in office at least five to 10 years before being considered even for membership on the powerful Senate appropriations committee.

This district's Senator Charles Zollar has become committee chairman after less than four years in the Senate.

He's the first to admit some luck was involved. Two years ago the GOP captured the Senate from the Democrats and new places opened up for Republicans as committee majorities shifted. This was accompanied by retirement of several senior Republicans. So some choice committee assignments were up for grabs among new Republican senators.

That situation created the opportunity for the Benton Harbor Republican. But from there on, he did it himself. In two years as a freshman senator, he's shown the acumen and savvy that helped him carve out successful careers in business, farming and local politics. He got the GOP caucus nod for the appropriations committee, and quickly, its vice-chairmanship.

Understudying Chairman Frank Beadle, who quit the Senate a month ago at 69, Zollar managed not only to impress Beadle and other GOP committeemen, he got along famously, also, with minority Democrats on the committee.

That explains why his confirmation as committee chairman yesterday passed the Senate unanimously — not a dissenting vote from either side of the aisle.

Chairmanship of the Senate appropriations committee is quite possibly in Michigan's government second in importance only to the governorship itself. It's easy to see why.

All bills involving appropriations, whether they originate in the House or Senate, must clear the Senate appropriations committee.

This puts the committee in position not only to shape spending and tax bills, but also to influence other legislation. Every legislator wants to get along with the men who hold the purse strings.

And the appropriations chairman, in particular, is thoroughly cultivated by every lawmaker jealous of the welfare — and the votes — of his home district.

Actually, Zollar's almost been appropriations chairman during the past year, chairing most meetings at the urging of aging Senator Beadle. In this role, Zollar has demonstrated an independence that has a lot of people guessing, not excluding Zollar's own party chieftan, Governor George Romney.

For example, Zollar has been a conservative spender, especially acute in detecting double standards of bookkeeping by hungry colleges and other state institutions.

On the other hand, he's anything but an arch-type reactionary. He authored and shepherded Michigan's first open occupancy bill through the Legislature — a truly complicated feat of political legerdemain.

He's done right well by his home district, as appropriations for Berrien, Cass and St. Joseph county junior colleges attest. But he's also fended off some over-hungry efforts in this quarter, too, as he emphasized that statewide fairness has to prevail "or Detroit will wind up getting it all."

With all the demands on state government that the public is making, and with all the protests over taxes that the public is also making, it seems as if the last job anyone would want is being the man in the middle — appropriations chairman of the Upper House of the Legislature.

But Zollar wanted it; he's got it; and it's going to be mighty interesting for the local folks to watch him at work.

U.S., India Discuss Their Common Interests

Under Secretary of State Nicholas deB. Katzenbach leads an American team which will hold three days of discussions on long-range Indian-American interests which will begin in New Delhi on Friday of this week.

The New Delhi talks will look ahead to what common interests India and the United States may have in the next two or three years in the United Nations, the Middle East, and in the military complexion of Asia. The makeup of the American team makes this clear.

In addition to Ambassador Chester Bowles, returning to New Delhi from home leave, and Under Secretary of State Nicholas deB. Katzenbach, the group will include such as Joseph A. Yager, vice chairman of State's Policy Planning Council and a China specialist, Morton Halperin, head of policy planning for the Department of Defense Office of International Security Affairs; Edward K. Hamilton, South Asian specialist on the National Security Council staff; and others of similar interests.

The Indian team will be headed by B.R. Bhagat, Minister of State for External Affairs. The talks will be comparable to bilateral discussions the United States holds periodically with Japan and Britain.

INDIA is not satisfied with the Nuclear Nonproliferation Treaty (NPT) voted by the U.N. General Assembly on June 12 — 95 to 4. One of 21 nations which abstained in the vote, India has said it will not sign the document.

The United States, the Soviet Union, and Britain, sponsors of the NPT, on June 17 gave identical formal pledges of immediate action through the Security Council to assist non-nuclear countries threatened by nuclear aggression. Neither the pledges nor a Security Council resolution welcoming them mentions Communist China, but the thrust of both was clear.

India on June 14 abstained from voting for the welcoming Security Council resolution. So did Pakistan, for similar reasons, though Pakistan did vote for the treaty in the Assembly.

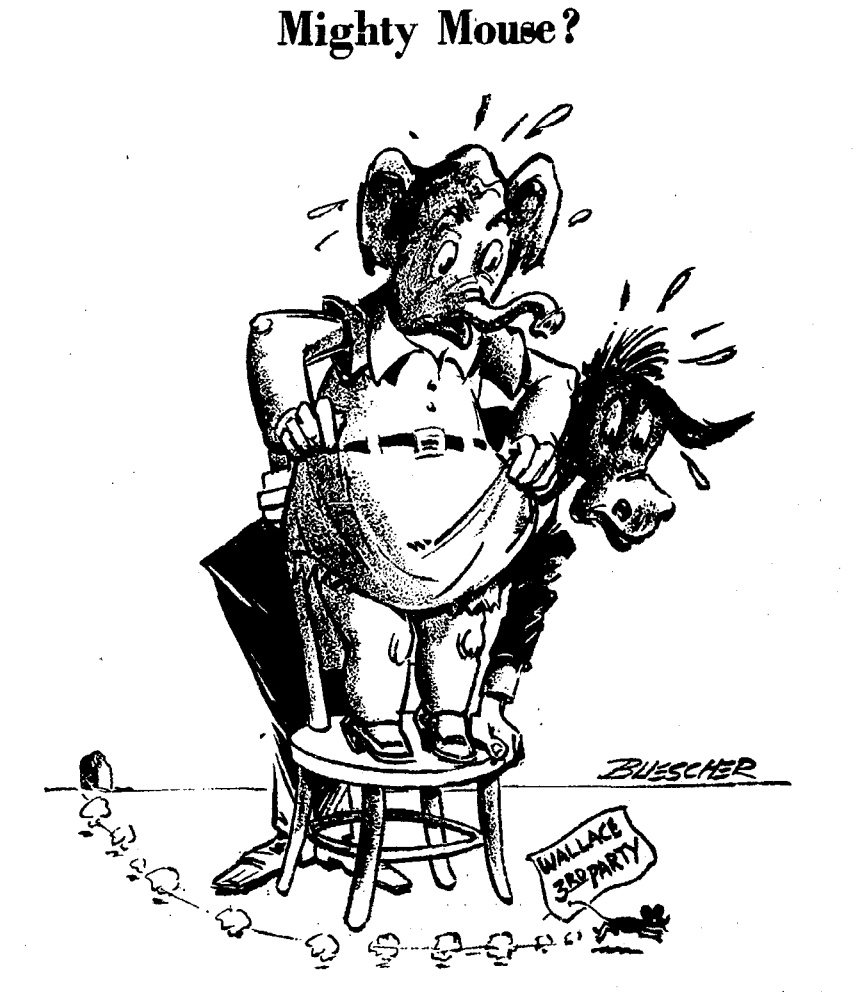

The U.S. State Department on June 17 went to considerable pains to point out that the talks in New Delhi were not organized as a palliative for a thinned down U.S. foreign aid program that has India as its major recipient. Since 1946 the United States has expended more than $7.25 billion in aid to India — technical assistance, capital aid, and Public Law 480 food shipments.

Technical assistance continues this year at about its usual level, the State Department says. Capital aid for fiscal 1968 is $275 million, down from $382 million in 1967. PL 480 food shipments (mostly grain) for the first six months of 1968 will come to $210 million under an agreement reached late last year. No firm agreement for the second half of 1968 has been reached, in part because of a better crop in India than had been expected.

But aid is a subject only tangential to the New Delhi dialogue. Security and national defense are long-term Indian concerns.

In the continuing race to conquer the cosmos, the Soviet Union scored a triumph on March 18-19, 1965, with the 17-orbit flight of Voskhod 2, piloted by Col. Pavel Belyayev. During this historic flight, his co-pilot, Aleksei Leonov, stepped out of the spaceship and floated in space for some 10 minutes.

Belyayev, officially known as Cosmonaut-10, is the oldest of the Soviet cosmonauts. A former naval pilot with combat duty at the end of World War II, he served in the Far East and the Black Sea area before joining the space program in late 1959.

Pavel Ivanovich Belyayev was born in 1925 in the village of Chelishchevo in the Vologda region northeast of Moscow. His father was a village doctor and his mother worked on a collective farm. A skier and hockey player, he was also fond of music and reading. His main passion, however, was hunting.

In 1943, he was accepted for training as a fighter pilot at the Yeisk navy pilot school in northern Caucasus. After the war, he remained in the Far East with a naval air squadron near the Siberian frontiers. He served briefly later as a fighter squad commander with the Black Sea fleet.

Selected as one of the original group of Soviet cosmonauts, Belyayev entered space training in late 1959 with the rank of major.

In preparation for the Voskhod 2 (Sunrise 2) flight on March 18, Belyayev had trained for more than a year with Aleksei Leonov. Leonov's unprecedented "swim" in outer space, along with Belyayev's navigating, won each of them the Order of Lenin, the title of Hero of the Soviet Union and the designation Pilot-Cosmonaut of the U.S.S.R.

HENRY CATHCART Inside Washington

WASHINGTON — Civics courses teach that Congress is responsive to the desires of the electorate, and all too often this naive concept of the operations of the federal government is retained by students long after they have matured and become voters.

It would be far more accurate to say that Congress will proceed along a given path of operations until an aroused electorate literally forces a change by defeating its legislators or so plainly threatening to do so that they are forced to reverse previous politically profitable positions.

The only way to explain failure up to this point of Congress to enact really meaningful gun control legislation is to conclude that the individual legislators have not yet been put under sufficient pressure from their own voters to reverse their opposition that stems from the activities of a particularly powerful lobby operation, the National Rifle Association. Elected representatives and senators are supposed to be endowed with the ability to gauge public desires, but the public obviously heavily favors gun control legislation. In this respect the majority of members of both houses of Congress have willfully chosen to disregard their constituencies because, to put it bluntly, they think they can get away with it.

In an entirely different way, these same legislators are disregarding the obvious public demand for a restoration of fiscal responsibility in government. The national economy clearly requires a tax increase and a cut in government spending. Congress has fiddled around on the tax increase issue for many months and has vociferously advocated cuts in government spending. Yet, a pay raise for government and military personnel totaling about $1.6 billion and approved when the national economy was in a different position is being permitted to become effective July 1.

Thus, despite obvious public sentiment to the contrary, Congress has elected to continue politics as usual, on the eve of returning to their homes to ask for voter endorsement of their stewardships.

DR. COLEMAN .. And Speaking Of Your Health

Is there a specialist in medicine who is called a diagnostician?

Only recently, on a late nighttime radio program, a doctor who was a guest was described as being a diagnostician and a surgeon. My immediate reaction to this was that it must have introduced confusion to the listeners because there is no such specialty in American medicine.

Diagnosis means the recognition of disease by the symptoms and by the use of all clinical methods of examination, coupled with X-ray, blood study and other techniques that are now available. Sometimes it takes dozens of tests to come to a conclusion about a patient's condition. This is the art of diagnosis.

There are some doctors who may be more understanding and perceptive about abdominal conditions than they are about heart conditions. There are others who may be more knowledgeable about diseases of the eyes than they are about diseases of the joints of the body. A diagnostician, therefore, is one who, within the confines of his own knowledge, can arrive at a definite conclusion about a patient's condition. It is interesting to note that it is often necessary to call in other specialists to contribute their valued impressions and opinions in order to arrive at the exact diagnosis of a patient's condition.

To call a doctor a diagnostician is to do him an injustice, because there is no such accepted specialty that conforms to the usual training and certification by hospitals and by the American Medical Association.

It is assumed that any well-trained specialist in surgery, or any field of medicine, will be equipped to make a diagnosis by virtue of his training and experience, but not by the title "diagnostician" that has no validity.

Are dishpan hands a medical condition or an advertising slogan?

Rough, unsightly hands have been tagged with all kinds of names beside dishpan hands. They are also called nurse's hands, dentist's hands, washer-woman's itch and carpenter's sandpaper irritation.

All of them may be caused by infection, or allergy, or some kind of sensitivity to one or more of the solutions, or substances, that are commonly used.

The itching, soreness, redness, blistering and inflammation of the skin may be caused by laundry soaps, chemicals, lacquers, sprays, harsh cleaners, insecticides and almost every conceivable substance that anyone is in contact with. Eczema is almost always a form of skin allergy which causes raw, red, painful, open surfaces that invite bacteria and infection to complicate the control of this painful and unpleasant condition.

Dishpan hands and all its variations frequently are caused by detergents, but these are not always the only reason. Sometimes a person can find and eliminate the offending substance by trial and error. Changing from one detergent to another may help in locating the exact reason. When this works and the culprit is detected, it is indeed a happy day.

Most often it takes the most shrewd kind of elimination and later, skin testing by an allergist to find the exact reason.

So bizarre and unusual are allergic skin conditions that one often wonders how even the specialist in allergy tracks them down. I know a patient who developed a severe skin reaction every time she wore mink. The joys and burrahs and enthusiasm of the husband were limitless when he learned that new mink coats were never again going to be purchased. His joy was short-lived when the same person was found to have no reaction to sable.

Opening lead — four of hearts.

This deal occurred during the 1962 European championships in the match between Great Britain and France.

When the British held the North-South cards, they arrived at four spades on the bidding shown. It would seem difficult, if not impossible, to avoid the loss of three trump tricks and a heart, but declarer (Peter Swenerton-Dyer, playing with Ken Barbour) managed the affair nicely.

He won the heart lead in dummy with the ace, cashed the Q-A of clubs, and continued with the jack. West ruffed with the seven and dummy over-ruffed with the eight. Declarer then ruffed a diamond and led another club.

West ruffed with the ace (best defense) as dummy and East discarded hearts, and returned a diamond which declarer trumped. With seven tricks played, this was now the position:

Declarer led a heart, ruffing low in dummy, cashed the ace of diamonds which caught East's king as South discarded a heart, and continued with the queen of diamonds.

It would not have helped East to ruff low, and in fact he ruffed with the queen, but he was then at the end of his rope. He could score one more trick, but South was bound to make the contract.

You would think that this delicate four spade contract, neither easy to bid nor easy to make, would have resulted in a handsome gain for the British team, but at the second table the French North-South pair duplicated the outcome and the hand was an exact tie.

NOW IT'S PAVED, TOO: Already one of the finest boat launching sites in Michigan, Benton Harbor's Riverview drive ramps on the St. Joseph river now have an added improvement. The parking lot and ramp approaches have been paved, as this photo shows. Pitch of the ramps, width of the slips, and access are all designed to make launching of trailered boats a thing of ease. As a result, hundreds of boat owners skip poorer sites much closer and come to Benton Harbor to put boats in the water.

Launching site is part of handsome riverfront park that stretches this way from Empire avenue (top of photo) almost a mile north to West Main street. ### Election Set Aug. 12 On 6 Mills

Registration Of Voters Is Called Key To Passage

A special committee of citizens in the Lakeshore school district recently organized to promote passage of a 6-mill tax levy, Tuesday night focused attention on registering voters.

Tom McGrath, of Stevensville, who heads the committee, opened a meeting of 50 citizens by explaining that in some of the subdivisions of the district there are people for some reason or another who are not interested enough to register to vote.

He said the committee will make an attempt to get as many of these persons as possible to register and vote and to explain to them just what the issues are.

EXTRA EFFORT

McGrath said the committee has been assured by the Lincoln township authorities that there will be extra clerks and deputies on duty to register citizens.

Lakeshore school district voters will be asked to ballot on Aug. 12 on a proposal for six additional mills for operational monies for the district. The issue has been defeated twice in the past.

Christine Welch, Lincoln township deputy clerk, announced she would be at the township hall to register citizens for the primary election on June 29 from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. and again on July 5 from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. For the school

Also at the meeting was school superintendent Edward Stafinski who explained why the six additional mills are needed in the district and answered questions from the citizens.

He said two years ago the district began the fiscal year with a balance of $220,000 and that this year the balance had dwindled to just $14,000. He

One citizen asked if part of the millage is going to be used this year to purchase five new buses, "and what about next year?" Stafinski said next year buses will also have to be replaced and that more students need more buses.

He again emphasized the reasoning for using part of this money to buy the buses out right being to eliminate the cost (See back page, sec. 1, col. 7)

Sodus Twp. Insurance Costs Cut

Fire Department More Effective

Sodus township clerk Carrol Cox last night told a meeting of the township board that considerable portions of the Sodas fire district have received a lower insurance classification.

Cox said that because of the increased effectiveness of the Sodas volunteer fire department, most areas of the township are class 9 but that some areas in the southern portion are still class 10.

Cox said that the lowered classification would mean about a $10 annual saving in insurance rates for the average property owner.

The lower classification has been in effect for several months, but Cox explained that "most residents weren't aware of it."

In other business, the board approved general fund bills amounting to $3,824.74 and bills of $1,159.18 from the fire account, $1,051.50 of which is for salaries.

A trio of Berrien County circuit commissioners, in session Tuesday before Judge Chester J. Byrns, now have several days to choose between these figures in setting a highway condemnation award for Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Swank of 2620 Niles avenue.

The highway department was represented by Special Asst. Atty. Gen. Henry Gleiss of Benton Harbor, and the Swanks by St. Joseph Atty. Stuart Meek.

Youths Admit 20 Breakins

BH Juvenile Officer Solves Mystery

By HOWARD HOLMES
Staff Writer

The Benton Harbor police department's solo youth officer, Det. Robert Irvin, has been instrumental in clearing up some 20 house burglaries that occurred in the past six months.

Dt. Irvin said four juveniles, who would make the break-ins during their school lunch hour, have been petitioned to the Berrien juvenile court. Ages of the youths were 13, 13, 14 and 15.

KNOCK ON DOORS

Their method of operation was to knock on the door of a home, Irvin said. If someone answered, they would ask the occupant if he or she would like to subscribe to an out-of-town newspaper.

If no one answered, Irvin said, the youths would go to the back of the building and break in. The older juvenile, the leader, estimated that he had taken about $500 in the six-month period, according to Irvin. Another said he got $200.

Irvin said the youths pointed out about 20 houses they had burglarized, as he drove them around the northeastern sector of Benton Harbor. Some they couldn't remember, he said.

They would eat food, pull drawers out of bureaus and throw the contents on the floor. They also broke windows or screens to enter the houses.

TIP FROM YOUTHS
The name of the youths came to the attention of Irvin while he was investigating a break-in of Morton school. Youths arrested mentioned the house burglars.

Irvin, who works in plain clothes, was appointed youth officer last April, after William McClaran was appointed chief of police. The chief was authorized last week to hire two additional juvenile officers.

SJ Savings Firm Pays Dividend

Higher Interest Rate Offered

Payment of the 104th consecutive semi-annual dividend of $485,000 was announced today by Herbert C. Kerlikowske, president of the St. Joseph Savings and Loan association.

This is the highest semi-annual dividend ever paid by the association since it was founded in 1916, Kerlikowske said. It brings the total for the past 12 months of $950,000. This is based on an annual interest rate of 4 1/2 per cent. Assets of the association now total $25,000,000.

NEW OFFERING

Kerlikowske announced that July 1 the association will offer a new type of certificate savings accounts paying 5 1/4 per cent on $10,000 and five per cent on accounts of $5,000 to $9,000.

It was erroneously last week that the rate on the new $10,000 certificates would be 5 1/2 per cent, Kerlikowske said, but the actual rate will be 5 1/4 per cent — the highest rate permissible authorized by the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corp.

Kerlikowske said the local savings and loan will continue its regular pass-book savings accounts which for the past several years have been at the rate of 4 1/2 per cent.

Body Turns Out To Be Mannequin

The Berrien County sheriff's marine patrol was called yesterday to investigate the report of a body floating down the St. Joseph River by Blossomland bridge yesterday afternoon.

Sgt. William Beilman searched the river and discovered a life-like mannequin, floating face down in the river.

The attendant of the Blossomland bridge, who notified authorities, identified the "body" as the one he saw in the river.

DONATED BY ART KASEWURM

Old Coins Will Help Build New Christ Lutheran Church

By DIC KDERRICK
SJ City Editor

Ken Ziebart has a handful of pennies he expects to turn into dollars to help build the new Christ Lutheran church south of St. Joseph.

Art Kasewurm, owner of the Playdrome at Silver Beach, St. Joseph, presented Ziebart, chairman of the Christ Lutheran building fund, with almost 300 Indian head pennies, a $2.50 gold piece and a $5 gold piece plus an 1861 half dollar.

Kasewurm has been sorting out Indian head pennies since he began working in arcades 40 years ago.

The coin-operated machines of two and three decades ago were considerably different from the ones of today, he said. They accepted most any type of coin-shaped metal piece and that is the only reason that Kasewurm can figure that somebody dropped the gold pieces into a machine taking a penny. The $2.50 gold piece, still in excellent shape, is slightly smaller than a penny. The $5 gold piece is slightly larger.

Included with the pennies was a coin collector's folder with most of the spaces filled in by Kasewurm.

He had some coin collecting advice for Ziebart. Don't, he advised, accept the first offer. He predicted that Ziebart would be swamped with requests of coin collectors to check through the cache.

The money from the sale of the collection will go to help build the new church-school complex now under construction on Cleveland avenue, St. Joseph, a quarter mile south of Glenford road.

Kasewurm, of 2766 West John Beers road, Stevensville, is a tool and die worker at Whirlpool's St. Joseph division. His knowledge of metals comes in handy in repairing some of the more ancient machines in the arcade. In some cases it is almost impossible to get parts, he said.

He started sorting out the pennies when he worked in various arcades in the east when a young man. He never knew what to do with them until now, he said.

Kasewurm, a member of Christ Lutheran church since its inception, currently serves as secretary of the congregation.

Rebel State Trooper Quitting

Weber Won 5-Day Week For Police All Over Michigan

TPR. CHARLES WEBER

By BILL RUMBLER
South Berrien Bureau

NEW BUFFALO — The trooper who fought the state police department through the Civil Service Commission for a one-day reduction in the work week revealed in the newspaper Tuesday that he is retiring for what he termed "departmental reasons."

TPR. Charles Weber of the New Buffalo state police post declined to comment as to what he meant by "departmental reasons."

Prior to 1962 it was state police policy to have troopers work six days a week but still receive a five-day week salary. This was also the policy of county, city and village law enforcement bodies.

CHALLENGES POLICY

In 1962 Weber challenged this policy through state civil service grievance procedures and won. The work week was reduced from six days to five, or from getting two days off every 10 days to four days off every 10 days. Trooper sometimes call this extended weekend the "Weber Weekend."

All other law enforcement bodies throughout the state followed suit in reducing the work week.

Weber, a veteran of 12½ years with the state police, will

Federal Snag Delaying Food Stamp Plans In 15 Counties

LANSING (AP) — A Michigan Department of Social Services official said Tuesday that plans by 16 Michigan counties to begin federal food-stamp programs on July 1 now must be held up.

Thomas Cook, assistant director of the Michigan Bureau of Family and Children's Services, said that a delay by Congress in passing an appropriation for the program apparently caused the difficulty.

The program was to begin in 16 counties: Allegan, Barry, Benzie, Branch, Clinton, Eaton, Grand Traverse, Hillsdale, Isabella, Mason, Muskegon, Ogemaw, Saginaw, St. Joseph, Shi-awasee and Wexford.

Cook said eight or nine other counties have been planning similar programs under which designated persons may purchase stamps which can be redeemed for food supplies worth more than the cost of the stamps.

Cook said many of the counties already have taken applications for the program.

Police Arrest Five Benton Harbor Men

BUCHANAN—Five Benton Harbor men were arrested by Buchanan police Tuesday afternoon after police received reports some men were trying to cash money orders.

Buchanan patrolman Dan Moore arrested the five after several Buchanan business men reported men trying to cash the money orders under unusual circumstances. The business men reported the license number of a car and Moore arrested the five men at 2 p.m.

The money orders were stolen in Chicago during the April disturbances, Moore said.

The five were arraigned before St. Joseph Municipal Court Judge Maurice Weber at 3:30 p.m. and all demanded examination on charges of uttering and publishing. Judge Weber set bonds at $5,000 each and the examination date for July 5.

FOUND UNCONSCIOUS

New Buffalo Police Hold 'Mystery Man'

NEW BUFFALO — City police here have in custody a mysterious and unidentified young man they found unconscious and nearly dead in an alley last night.

Mrs. Ezra Scott of Scotty's Restaurant told police she noticed a man walk past the open back door of her restaurant and then fall face down in the alley.

Police arriving at the scene noted that his pulse was barely detectable and that he was not breathing.

Heart massage and mouth to mouth resuscitation was administered to the subject and he began to breathe. He was taken, still unconscious to St. Anthony's Hospital in Michigan City. No medical report was available this forenoon, police said.

They described the man as being neatly dressed and around 25 to 30 years of age.

Early this morning the man regained consciousness, but apparently could not talk. However, he was able to write his name as Donald Hoffman, with a brother living in Taylor, Mich. He had no identification on him.

Officers said they contacted the alleged brother who stated that he never heard of a Donald Hoffman. The subject revealed to police that he does not know where he is, how he got here or what happened to him. He is being kept under surveillance at the hospital.

Recruiting Is Key To Success

Education Offered To Children At 18 Area Towns

A widely-expanded educational program for children of migrant families is now underway in southwestern Michigan.

The program this summer is offered in 18 school districts, whereas last year the program was offered in only four districts.

Michigan receives more migrant families than any other state, according to Ernest Shaw of Paw Paw, assistant director for Region Three of the Title II program in Michigan. Shaw said southwestern Michigan receives the bulk of the migrants who come to the state.

He said the area was pinpointed for the trial program last year with centers located at Pearl school in the Benton Harbor district, Dowagiac, Fennville and Allegan. It was the success of those programs, said Shaw, that resulted in the Michigan Department of Education promoting the program in Michigan this year.

The basic purpose of the program is to supplement the education of the migrant child who often spends as little as three months in school.

U.S. FUNDS

It is a federal government funded program under the Title II elementary education act. The fund applicant agent is the Michigan Department of Education. In the state there are 21 delegate agents. This area is designated as Region Three with the Van Buren County Intermediate School District as its agent. Region Three includes Van Buren, Berrien, Cass and Allegan counties. Harold Turner is the program director and he is assisted by Shaw who is Van Buren Intermediate School district assistant superintendent.

Schools are being operated this year in Benton Harbor, Coloma, Watervliet, Hartford, Eau Claire, Covert, South Haven, Lawton, Lawrence, Bloomingdale, Dowagiac, Berrien Springs, Decatur, Fennville, Gobles, Martin, Paw Paw and Wayland.

Children from the age of 2½ and older are eligible for the program which began June 17 in most districts and which will run through Aug. 9. There is no charge to the children.

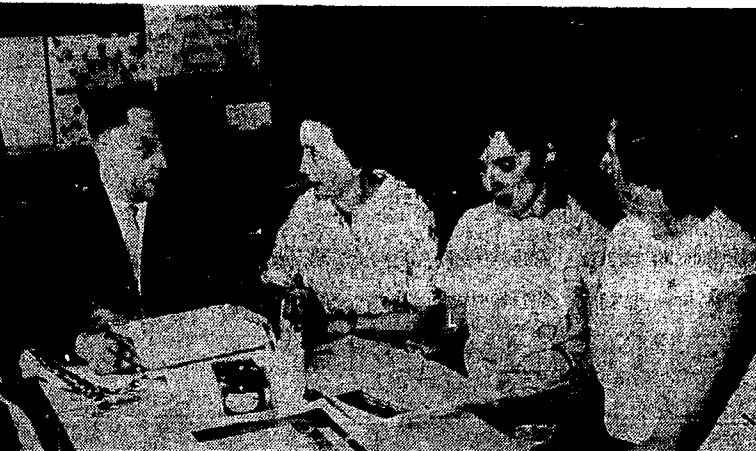

The programs are basically the same in all districts. Bus transportation is provided for the children from the farm they are living on to the school. The school begins at 8:30 a.m. and is dismissed at 3:30 p.m.

After the children arrive at the school, they are served breakfast consisting of cereal, bread product, milk and fruit juice.

During the day, the language arts will be stressed as the most important academic part of the program, according to Shaw. He said this will include reading, and language arts. There will also be a supervised

SCHOOL FOR MIGRANTS: The Watervliet school district is one of 18 in southwestern Michigan providing education for children of migrant workers this summer. This typical class is made up of 2½ to 4-year-old children. Mrs. Elaine Rae is the teacher and Miss Eva Huerta, (helping child) is the teacher aide. Child on floor is not 2½ but has been accepted in the program. Mannes (Monte) Overweg heads the Watervliet program.

TEACHERS LEARN TOO: Dwight Brink, principal of the Coloma elementary building, is heading the migrant education program in the Coloma school district. play period to help children develop coordination and constructive thought. Shaw emphasized the programs will be geared to the ability of the individual.

At noon, a hot lunch is served following the basic nutritional formula set by the federal government. It includes two ounces of meat or meat substitute, bread product, vegetable and/or fruit.

Also included in the program are educational and entertaining movies and a free play time to let children burn up some of their excess energy. A project time will complete the day.

One of the important parts of the program will be field trips for the children to familiarize them with public services that are available and to teach them how to use them properly.

These trips will include visits to libraries, bus and train stations, fire and police departments, public parks and camp sites and other public agencies.

All personnel is paid by funds provided by the Title II funds. The rooms are rented, utilities paid and all school equipment used is rented. Mileage, maintenance and depreciation on buses is paid and all materials are provided by these funds.

Food used for meals must be purchased locally and all personnel is to be hired locally.

All teachers attended nine in-service training sessions prior to the program. These sessions were conducted by staff members of Western Michigan university and leading educators from throughout the state.

Each school also has the services of a part-time nurse and social worker and access to health facilities. Vision, hearing and dental tests will be given the children and problems noted will be referred to the Migrant Medical Center.

The program is adjusted to the migrants' way of life. When a child and his family move to a different area, the child is given his progress data information. This will allow the child to enroll in the school into the area where he has moved. If possible the school where he leaves notifies the new school so that a recruiter can contact the child if he does not voluntarily enroll.

Shaw said the recruiting of children is the most important factor in the program. Although each school is provided a recruiter, he can not be expected to do the entire job, Shaw said.

Every teacher and person working in the program, as well as every farmer who employs migrants, and every interested person in the community must serve as recruiters if the program is to be successful, Shaw said.

The one factor that can make the program fail, and result in a waste of money, said Shaw, is lack of recruiting. The children are there, but must be approached and assisted in taking advantage of the schooling.

"It is a very different kind of program. Planning for it is like planning for rain on a certain day next month. We are planning for kids that aren't here, but that we expect to be here. Their influx into the areas is as uncertain as Michigan weather, which is the major contributing factor to the migrants' whereabouts," Shaw said.

He added, that this does not mean the program is not a good one, but it simply means that it takes a lot of constructive planning, thinking, cooperation, and above all, hard work to get the people involved. It takes the cooperation of the entire community in recruiting to realize the full potential of the program.

Coloma Teacher, Class Busy Collecting Bottles

COLOMA — Tom Lobdell's bottle collecting hobby captured the enthusiasm of his entire class at the Washington elementary school.

Two and a half years ago, Lobdell unearthed an old bottle by chance in a gully while hunting for fossils. His interest aroused, he began looking for more bottles and within a short time had discovered 40.

It was easily discernable that the bottles were old by the unusual medical labels such as: Foley's Kidney and Bladder Cure, Swamp Root Kidney, Liver and Bladder Cure, Kemp's Balm for Throat and Lungs, Ely's Cream Balm Liquid for Hayfever and Catarrh.

Lobdell bought a small book on bottle collecting and showed his collection to his students at Washington school, who became so interested that they began collecting bottles for their teacher.

OUTGROW HANDBOOK

Soon Lobdell's bottle collection outgrew the information in his simple handbook and he was forced to take to area libraries for more comprehensive bottle information. Students located old dumping sites and helped Lobdell explore them. One site near Paw Paw turned up over 400 bottles, turn of the century vintage.

Surprisingly, a local bottle has proven the only one for which Lobdell cannot trace the complete history. The bottle was manufactured by the H.O. Wilson Company of Benton Harbor which closed down in the early 1950's and Lobdell has been unable to learn if other bottles marked "Wolverine, Product of Northern Coca Cola Bottling Company" are Wilson Company products.

Lobdell has now branched into collecting rocks, Indian artifacts, old toys and even unearthed a 1000 pound millstone near Millburg where it had been buried for nearly 70 years.

TV Show Invaded By Dirty-Talking Hippies

NEW YORK (AP) — A group of hippies invaded a television studio Tuesday night, took over a live interview program and mouthed obscenities never heard on TV before, police said.

The 20-minute, on-camera incident occurred over WNDT, the city's educational TV station.

Police, arriving after the last of five calls from station personnel, arrested seven of the intruders, six men and a woman. The others scattered. The number was estimated at between 20 and 40.

During the takeover, station officials said, the hippie group knocked down a station guard, tore the shirt of an associate studio director, and shouted, screamed and cursed over the airwaves.

WITNESSED BY GLENN
Former astronaut John Glenn, an interview guest earlier who was still at the studio, smilingly said later, "And they say there is violence on commercial television."

Lee Hayes, the producer of the "Newsfront" show then on the air, said that despite a deluge of phone calls from startled viewers, "I decided to allow the camera to continue to run, even though they had taken over the entire program and were running it...."

"I was afraid that if I cut them off the air, they might do physical harm to my staff. I knew a call had been put in for the police, and I decided to wait until they arrived."

The guests on the panel show were three representatives of the "underground press"—small newspapers which cater in large part to the hippie crowd. The trio was being interviewed by a New York Times reporter, Steven V. Roberts, when the hippies burst in, five minutes into the interview.

They brought along a motion picture and a still camera and a tape recorder which, when turned on, emitted garbled sounds.

The hippies complained that the metropolitan press had not adequately treated the story of the April-May student uprisings at Columbia University and elsewhere.

Interview guest Jeff Shero, of Rat, an underground publication, commented, "They just wanted to be part of the discussion. Some of them are connected with underground newspapers. It would have been a better program if they had been invited."

The station filed complaints of criminal trespass against the seven arrested, and police said they plan to have a taping of the sequence as evidence.

St. Peter's Bones Authentic--Pope

Pontiff Gives 'Happy News' To Catholic Faithful

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI announced today that the Vatican has conclusively determined that mortal remains found under St. Peter's Basilica are those of the Apostle revered by the Roman Catholic Church as its first pope.

"The relics of St. Peter have been identified in a convincing manner," the 70-year-old pontiff told his weekly general audience.

The tomb of St. Peter was located in 1950 under the Altar of Confession of the basilica. Pope Pius XII announced then that bones had been found in it but that it was not proven they were St. Peter's. Some archeologists claimed they belonged to an old woman.

Later, in a nearby niche, fragments of a skull and other parts of bones weighing about 4 1/2 pounds were discovered. Italian archeologist Margarita Guarducci claimed in a recent book that the bones belonged to St.

Trucker Trapped 45 Minutes

Injured In
I-94 Smashup

A Wisconsin truck driver is listed in fair condition this morning at Mercy hospital after being trapped in his semi-trailer for more than 45 minutes, after it jackknifed and rolled over on I-94 here.

Berrien county sheriff deputy Gary Mitchell said Ronald S. Purcell, 25, of Elkhorn, Wis., was removed with the help of state police, three deputies, and several passersby.

The accident occurred at 8:05 a.m. yesterday after a car tried to pass Purcell's truck and pulled in front of it, causing Purcell to swerve off the road, deputies said.

Purcell said he hit a slick spot while on the shoulder, and his truck jackknifed and rolled into the ditch near Roslyn road, in Benton township. Purcell suffered a fractured arm, and lacerations of the head.

In another accident, Truck Driver Ernest Hester Jr., 31, of 802 East Washington street, Benton Harbor, was treated at Memorial hospital for lacerations and then released. His semi-truck hit a slick spot on US-31 near Zoschke road yesterday noon, and rolled over, Deputy Gary Mitchell said.

In St. Joseph township, a 14-year-old cycle rider was injured when he collided with an auto, and landed on the windshield. Treated and released from Memorial hospital was Ronald Rimpel, of 1388 Cardinal drive, Lincoln township. Rimpel suffered a gash in the neck and arm lacerations.
